About the Author

Charlene Carr is an ardent lover of words. When she needed punishment as a child her parents took her books away. These punishments were blessings in disguise - with nothing to read, she created her own stories.

Pursuing her life-long obsession with words, Charlene studied literature in University, attaining both a BA and MA in English. She contributed to that learning by also earning a Bachelor of Journalism.

Currently, Charlene's focus is on novel writing and she is loving every minute of it ... well, almost every minute. There are days when her characters fight to have the story their way! (And they're almost always right.)

Charlene lives in St. John's, Newfoundland, Canada and loves exploring the amazing coastline of her harbour town.

About Beneath the Silence

Beneath the Silence is a story about family, about friendship, and learning to live with your past rather than running from it while finding the strength to create a life of your own making.

At its heart, Beneath the Silence is the story of what it is to be struggling and lost and the need to find your way back to a sense of self. It's a story I imagine each of us can relate to in some way.
